SOUTHERN ATOLLS, MALDIVES

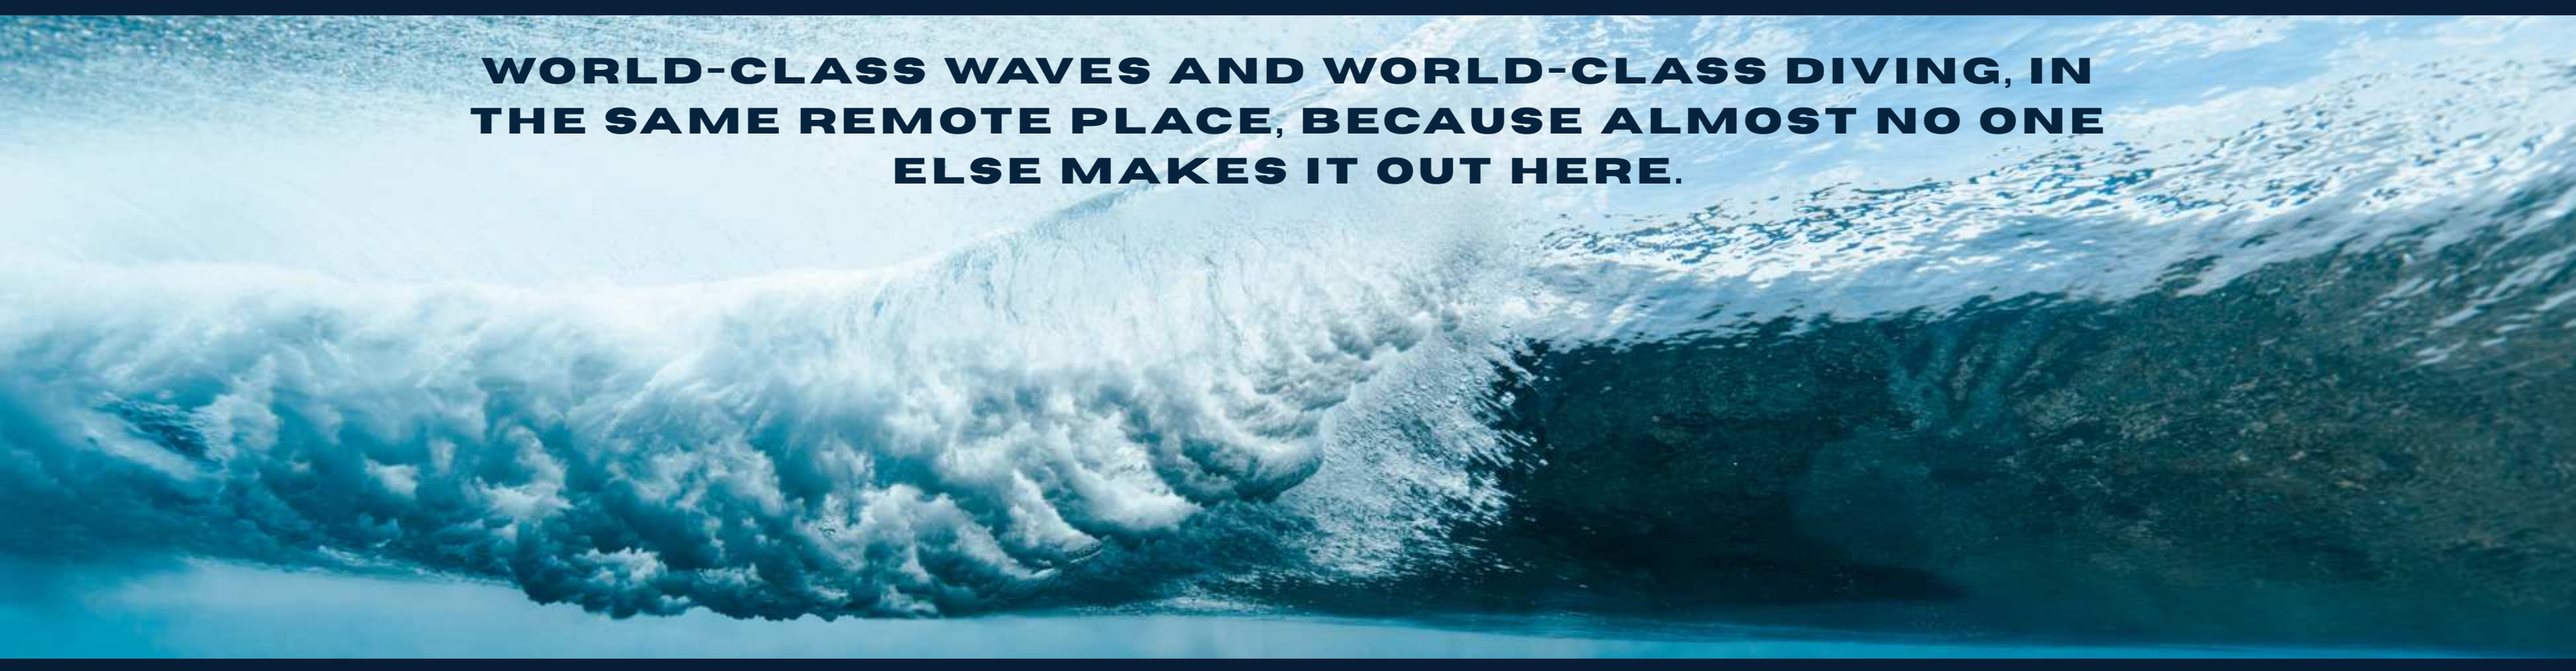

THE WAVES

Heading deep south into the Indian Ocean means tapping into the consistent swells that wrap into the far southern atolls — and despite the remoteness, a large concentration of the best breaks sit well within a short boat trip of each other.

Beacons is probably the best-known wave in the chain, Indonesian-style power and perfection. Five Islands, Blue Bowls and Love Charms are more user-friendly, and inspire real devotion from the surfers who keep coming back. Add a handful of secret spots only the guides know, and you'll see why this is a new surf frontier — built for travellers willing to test their limits and their imagination.

WHY THE REMOTENESS MATTERS

The far southern atolls are some of the hardest-to-reach breaks in the Maldives — and that's exactly the point. The same isolation that keeps these line-ups empty is what keeps the reefs beneath them this healthy. This stretch of the Indian Ocean is known for resident reef sharks, passing mantas and some of the richest pelagic life in the country

WORLD-CLASS WAVES AND WORLD-CLASS DIVING, IN THE SAME REMOTE PLACE, BECAUSE ALMOST NO ONE ELSE MAKES IT OUT HERE.

BEACONS

Indo-style power and perfection. The flagship wave of the trip.

FIVE ISLANDS

Playful, forgiving, and pure fun — a favourite for all levels.

BLUE BOWLS

User-friendly walls and easy take-offs, close to the boat.

LOVE CHARMS

The wave everyone falls for — and keeps coming back to.

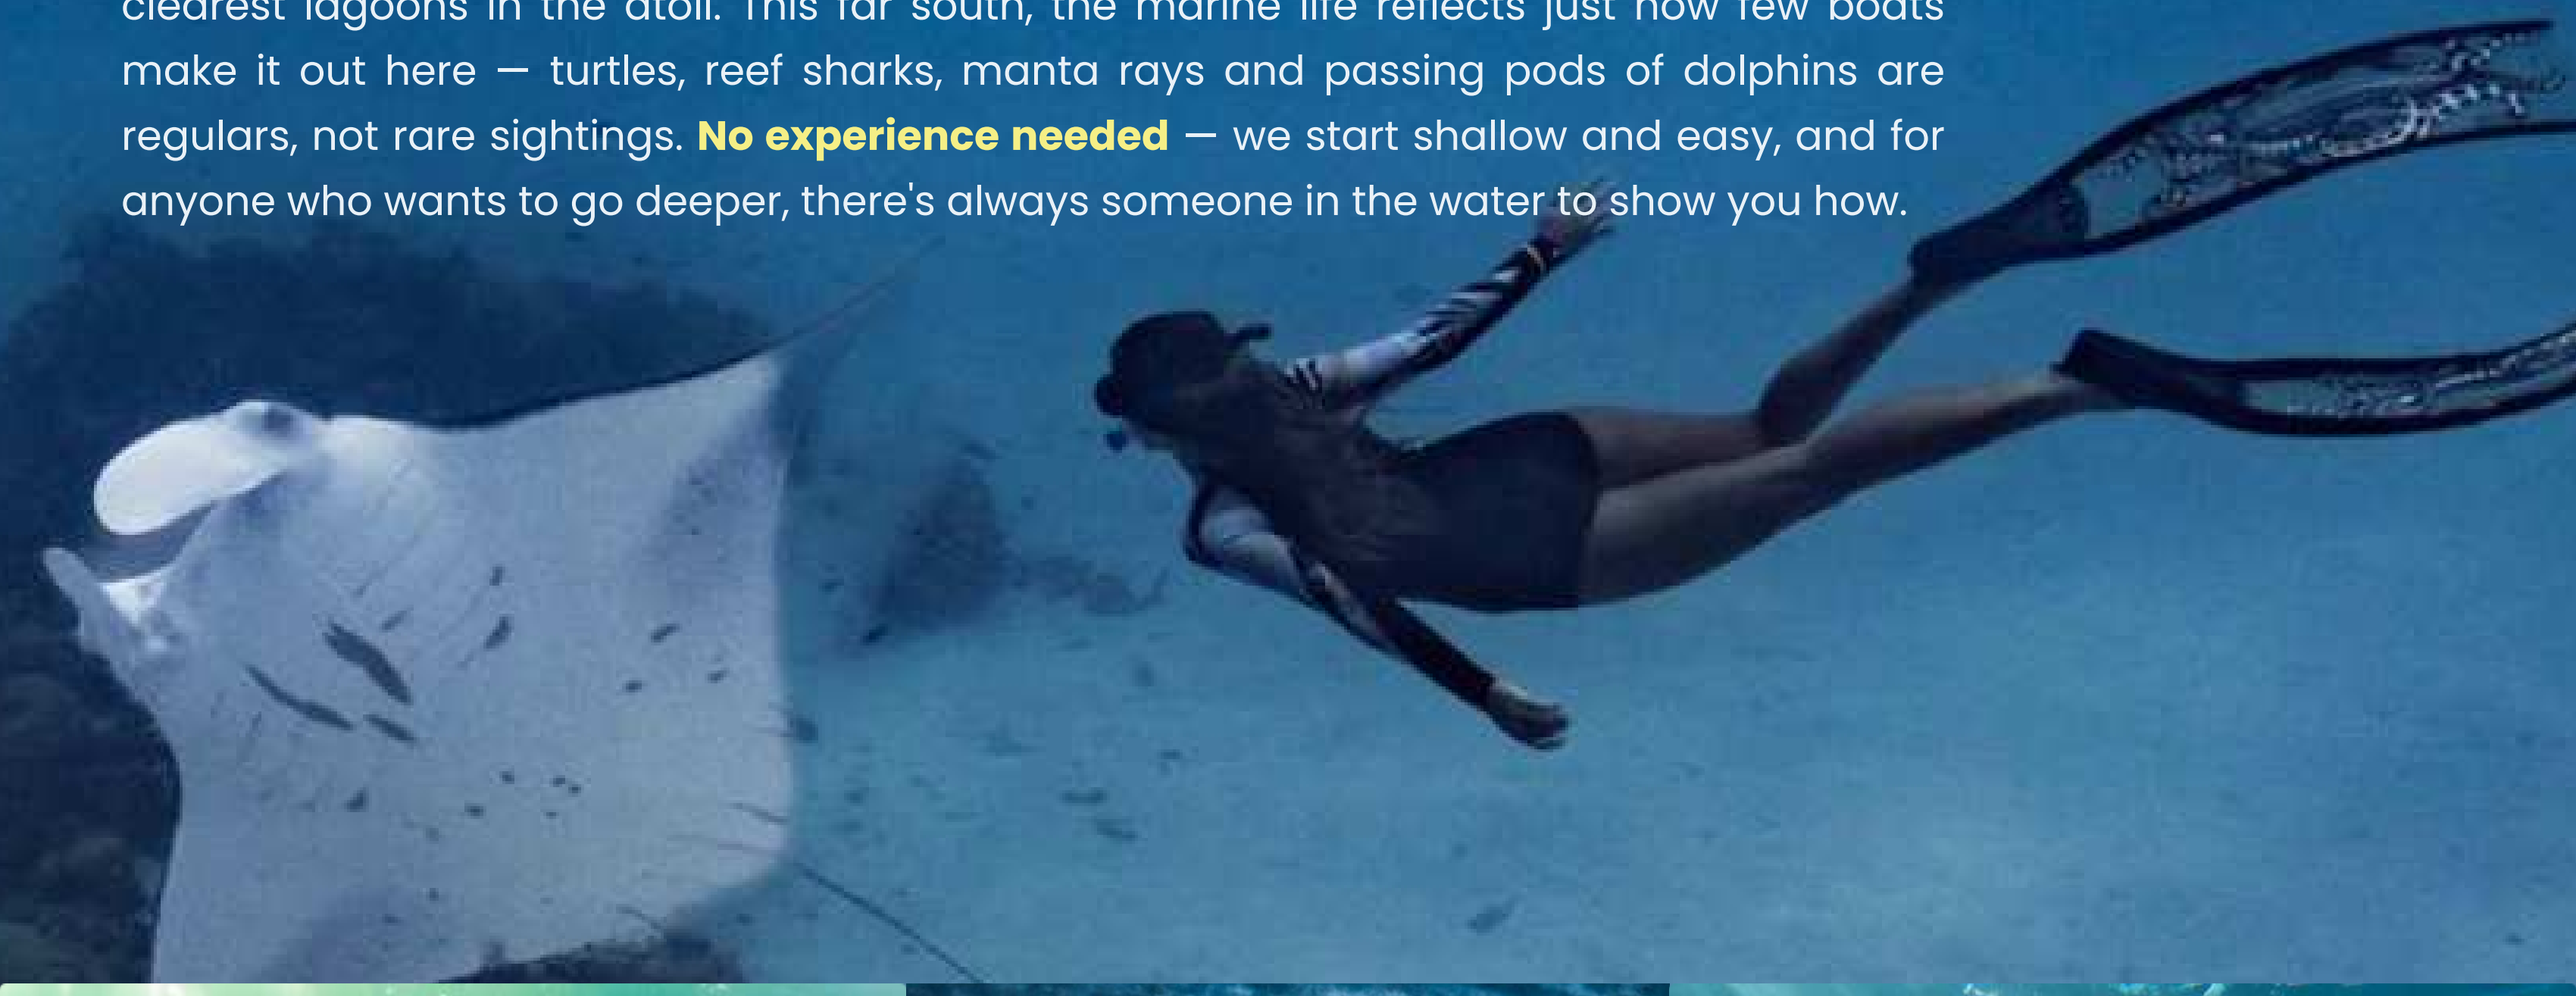

...plus a handful of secret spots only the guides know about.

FREEDIVING & SNORKELING

BELOW THE SURFACE

This trip was never just about the surf. Between sessions, we're back in the water — free diving down the reef wall, drifting over coral gardens, and swim with some crazy marine life!! (we leave that as a secret)

Guided snorkel excursions run throughout the trip, out to the healthiest reef and the clearest lagoons in the atoll. This far south, the marine life reflects just how few boats make it out here — turtles, reef sharks, manta rays and passing pods of dolphins are regulars, not rare sightings. No experience needed — we start shallow and easy, and for anyone who wants to go deeper, there's always someone in the water to show you how.

YOUR HOSTS

MEET THE CREW

MAUI

mauiph.com

Waterwoman, passionate surfer and sailor, advocate for the ocean.

Maui has spent years immersing herself in the rhythms of the ocean, perfecting the art of underwater photography, and exploring the deep through freediving. Her passion is about documenting the soul of the sea and sharing its wonders with the world. She specializes in capturing moments that evoke curiosity and inspire a deeper appreciation for the natural world.

Maui didn't grow up chasing waves — she found them later, the way a lot of us do: looking for something that was entirely hers. What started as a way to explore and clear her head turned into the thing that's given her the most confidence she's ever felt. Somewhere along the way she realized the ocean always provides with HUGE amounts of DOPAMINE.

That's the whole reason this trip exists. Maui built this experience to give other women the version of the ocean she found — unintimidating, unhurried, and genuinely fun — and to prove a surf trip can be just as much about the women on the boat as the waves outside it.

ANDY

The camera man and the coolest host

Surf photographer, in the water with a housing when the waves are on.

Andy Potts is the reason things happen on a boat. A Gold Coast surf photographer and videographer, he's been shooting the Mentawais and the Maldives since the early 2010s and is one of The Perfect Wave's most prolific photographers, with assignments across Indonesia, the Maldives, Fiji, Micronesia and Hawaii. He's built his career on everyday surfers rather than the pro tour, and he's the one who gets the whole boat in the water, finds the right wave, and has everyone laughing by the second session. Ask anyone who's travelled with him: the trip with Andy is the one that goes better than planned.

He is the reason your best wave of the trip will be on your wall at home.
